1. PROBLEM STATEMENT

- 1.1 The role played by data in the economy and society is changing. The growth of the internet and the rise of 'big data' mean that access to large data sources in a usable form is an increasingly important feature in open and competitive economies.
- 1.2 Innovators and entrepreneurs are using these large data sets to design new kinds of products, enhance their competitiveness, build social capital and engage in civic life.
- 1.3 The City generates a significant amount of data that is useful to citizens. However, this information is often hidden from view in line department archives or is difficult to access. Various data access policies and procedures within the organisation similarly impede public access to information.
- 1.4 The City and its agencies have numerous websites and portals. However, these are often not user-friendly and the information they contain is sometimes out of date and not in machine readable format.

2. DESIRED OUTCOMES

- 2.1 The City aims to establish and incrementally populate a single online open data portal for information and data generated by the organisation that is free and accessible to members of the public.
- 2.2 The open data portal will assist citizen engagement with the City by making it easier for members of the public to access data. Enhancing transparency will empower citizens to hold the City to account.
- 2.3 The portal aims to make available information that is useful and empowering for citizens.

3. STRATEGIC INTENT

- 3.1 The policy supports the 'Well-run City' pillar of the IDP and specifically objective 5.1: The transparent government programme.
- 3.2 The policy supports the 'Opportunity City' pillar of the IDP and specifically objective 1.1: Create an enabling environment to attract investment that generates economic growth and job creation.
- 3.3 The policy supports the Economic Growth Strategy programme on prioritising competitiveness in City business improvement initiatives, specifically where this relates to governance and oversight and improving the competitiveness of the broader economy of Cape Town.

4. POLICY PARAMETERS
